COPPER MOUNTAIN, Colo. – May 8, 2017 – Woodward Copper, the leader in youth lifestyle and action-sports programming, is less than a month away from Summer Camp kickoff and continues to ramp up with the addition of new professional athlete visitors and camp programming. Along with a heavy-hitting lineup of visiting pros and sponsors, campers will get to spend more time fine-tuning their tricks by spending two additional hours on the snow.

"We're giving campers the most bang for their buck by extending on-snow sessions by two hours this summer," said Adam Kisiel, Woodward Copper operations manager. "Skiers will now be lapping Pipeline Park from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. every week to dial in the tricks they've always wanted to land."

Dates for 2017 Woodward Copper Ski Camp visiting pros and sponsors are as follows:

- June 4 – 10 – Line Skis, Full Tilt Boots Week with Will Wesson and Erik Olson
- June 11-17 – Saga Outerwear and Zeal Optics Week with McRae Williams and Cody Cirillo

Woodward Copper Summer Camp is the only on-snow ski camp in Colorado, giving campers the opportunity to ski each day at Copper's Pipeline Park over the course of nine weeks. With triple-line jumps terrain, no chairlift lines and a five minute ride up the Super Tube surface lift, campers are guaranteed to maximize their time on the snow. Afternoon sessions at The Barn, a 19,400 square foot indoor playground with ParkSkis™, Skatelite jumps into foam pits, a pump track, multiple skate areas, a 54' x 22' spring floor, six Olympic fly-bed trampolines, and a 16' x 16' Super Trampoline, are used to help hone in skills. Campers also have the opportunity to participate in various resort and camper-only activities such as navigating the Woodward Copper WreckTangle, a brand new ninja obstacle course designed to ignite spatial awareness, athleticism, agility, and amusement. The WreckTangle diversifies Woodward Copper's summer activities, encouraging kids to move through obstacles with skill and strength.
